EULBERG'S REO CAR

BECOMES VERY CLASSY WITH

"STEELCOTE" TREATMENT

Proof of the wonderful results achieved with "Steelcote" can be found in the present appearance of Henry Eulberg's Reo car. It is a dream in olive green and black. And it's all due to a recent treatment with the famous rubber enamel paint, full particulars of which will be imparted at the Ocean Beach Garage on Newport avenue.

VOLTAIRE MEAT MARKET

Mr. Elmer Nance, who now conducts the Voltaire Meat Market, states that he makes a specialty of fresh fish and oysters in season, while choice cuts of the best meats obtainable can be secured at all times under the most sanitary conditions.

Birthday Greeting

Meeting a sturdy looking child lately, I stopped and asked him, "How old are you?" He stretched himself up all he could and said, "FIVE."

"My but you are big for five; what is your name?"

"Oh, you know," he said, "Everybody knows me. I'm the 'BEACH NEWS.' You know my daddy KIRK? And my mammy KATHERINE? Sure I do!"

"Well, is it possible? I remember the day you were born—a wee, pudgy little mite, that so many said would not live three months. What has made you grow so?"

With a cute twinkle, the boy answered, "Oh, climate, and good nursing—with ads and contrabs, and lots of birthday presents. I'm getting fat! See?"

"Fine," I answered, "Keep on growing! I'll see that you get a lot of birthday presents."

"That's bully," he said, "I can use 'em! Thank you. Good bye!" (He's a smart 'un.)

DO YOU WANT A NICE KITTEN? Have four to give away. Call at 830 Pismo Court, Mission Beach.

M. B. CHAMBER MEETS

NEXT MONDAY EVENING

The regular monthly meeting of the Mission Beach Chamber of Commerce will be held on Monday evening, November 29, at 7.45 p. m. at the school building on Santa Barbara place. Business very much to your interests as a property holder or resident of the beach will take place, including the election of a secretary and other officers. If you have any kicks come and make 'em. If you are satisfied with everything, come and say so. But COME!

Concerning the seawall, it has been suggested that we borrow the idea from our neighbor's across the bridge and incorporate rest rooms and comfort stations in our plans.

The members of the Mission Beach Plunge Girls' Club and their mothers met recently at the Mission Beach bath house to celebrate the opening of new club rooms for the swimming organization. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. The club meets for training in the plunge Monday nights at 7, Wednesday afternoons at 4 and Saturday mornings at 10.30.

ANNUAL BANQUET TO

FOOTBALL "SQUAD"

The football season was formally ended at Point Poma Hi Tuesday night, when the student body of the school gave the football "squad" their annual banquet. Twenty-one players were present, and all enjoyed breaking the training rules by eating too much. The principal, Mr. Ross, the vice-principal, Mr. Swenson, Coach William Foote, and many of the teachers were also present.

Horace Dunning, president of the associated student body gave a short talk, and introduced the other speakers of the evening.

The letter men this year are Theron Cline, newly-elected captain, Roy Justice, Jack O'Mara, Earl Hagland, Clifford Wells, Clark, Willis Doebsman, Jack Walters, Clifford Harrison, Frank Buss, Rolly Fowler, Paul Driscoll and Paul Markel.

Photographs—Froide—Bacon St.

Miss Georgia's 8B history classes have seen some very interesting moving pictures on the Gold Rush in California, Africa, China, Japan and India.

Pupils in 7B Social Science, Room 37, have been busily engaged in making salt maps of Mexico and the West Indies. Van Peters has made excellent maps of both countries.

Product maps of Mexico have also been made recently. Thea Carlson and Elizabeth Forbes, Takai Tapi got first places in these.

Miss Edith Henderson collaborated with the Social Science class in having her Arithmetic Class make graphs of production in Mexico and graphs of the principal countries producing silver, petroleum and gold. Mildred Slammer and Margaret Overend got first and second places.

7A Social Science classes have finished their history this week and the note books with pictures of the Colonial and Revolutionary Period are completed. Nancy Tyrell, Virginia Eastin, Adeline Rabbitts, Gaynelle Early, Ruth Thornhill and Marjorie FFrissius deserve special mention for their excellent collection.

The Shaver's Club recently held their first meeting this year. It was called for the discussion of the subject of entertainment.

Mr. Richard Requa visited Point Loma High School Monday, Nov. 22, and showed two very interesting reels of moving pictures taken while he was traveling through Spain recently. Gardens and architecture were the special features. These films were enjoyed by the Modern Europe, English and Spanish classes.

GIRLS ATHLETICS

Girls are now signing up for Soccer. The goals have been erected and Soccer season will start soon. The girls wrote a letter to Commander Canaga of the Marine Base, thanking him for the goal posts, which he so generously donated.

An indoor rope apparatus and steel bars have been installed.

A new back top has been obtained for the basewalk diamond.

The Officer's Club had a meeting last Thursday. An interesting program was given by the "Exit Quartet" consisting of Peggy Lyman, Peggy Tatum, Marjorie Stace, Ruth Hall and Elsie Bell, pianist, who played the table.

The library has received 150 new fiction books which are now ready for circulation. Some of them are Coayner's Works, Blackmore's Lorna Doone, Miller's Living Drama, and Sienkiewicz's Quo Vadis.

The Art Classes are now busy getting material ready for their Christmas cards, which are to be linoleum prints. They expect to have a large sale this year.

The Milk Club now has 45 members. This club partakes of milk and crackers at 9:30 daily and many of the students under weight are gaining each week.

The Home Nursing Class is doing practical work and finding the course very interesting. They will soon take up the care of a real child, and prove their theories.

Miss Lucille Eade, English teacher at Point Loma High School last year was visiting here last week end. She is teaching this year at Inglewood High School.

Miss Edith Henderson is absent from school this week because of having her tonsils removed. Miss Clifford is taking her place.

The 12B English class has a new member to help it in writing newspaper articles. June McIntyre has come to us from New Trenton High School, in Trenton, New Jersey.

Miss Gladys Austin gave a very lovely Bunco Party at her home on 2330 Albatross street recently. Misses Dorothy Edwards and Mary Lou Ross were the winners. Those invited were: Misses Dorothy Vaughn, Edna Bishop, Dorothy Edwards, Mary Louise Stimson, Mary Richards, Jean Harrison, Louise Doebsman, Harriette Christensen, Mary Lou Ross, Anna Lough, Margaret McClellan.

APPRAISEMENT AND APPRECIATION

Rev. W. S. Dunn Extends Congratulations and Ably Commends the Progressive Policy of This Home Newspaper

Ocean Beach, Calif., Nov. 23, 1926.

Kirk Smith, Editor of "The Beach News."

My Dear Smith:

Permit me to congratulate you upon the Fifth Anniversary of "The Beach News." I want you to know that your many friends and subscribers appreciate the splendid effort that you have made to give to the residents of the beach districts a weekly newspaper that is worthy of a front place among the newspapers of the State of California.

I know that your task has not been an easy one. The achievement of the worth-while always demands the best in effort and means.

In these days, when there is so much sensational froth in print that is placed before the public, it is refreshing to have the opportunity of reading a conservative and clean newspaper. This we have always found "The Beach News" to be.

Your articles dealing with public morals are such that none have need to fear the children of the home reading them. The truth, without exaggeration, is never a detriment, but rather a spur to better effort.

In your boosting of the beach sections, your paper has always striven to be sane and helpful, seeking to interest that type of citizen that will make the community a place in which a family can be reared, with safety, decency and happiness.

Your promotion of education, art, literature, and patriotism, through the columns of "The Beach News" is a challenge to many of the newspapers of the county. I believe that every home in the community would be the more intelligent relative to the welfare and progress of the beach districts, if "The Beach News" were made the family newspaper.

I find from statistical reports of community weekly newspapers published in San Diego county that your paper tops the list for subscribers. May the numbers continue to swell. Again permit me to congratulate you upon this splendid achievement, and to wish for your continued success, I am,

Very truly yours,

REV. W. S. DUNN.

"Songs In Flowers"

SOMETHING NEW FOR TOURNAMENT OF ROSES AT
PASADENA THIS YEAR

The annual Tournament of Roses at Pasadena next New Year's Day will have a definite theme underlying its gorgeous floral pageantry. "Songs in Flowers" has been chosen as the motif for the floats in the parade which is the outstanding feature of the big mid-winter fete. Each float will intercept the title of a song. The method of interpretation will be left to the imagination and originality of those who sponsor and build the floats, but, as in all past tournaments, every float must be a floral creation, and only fresh, natural flowers may be used.

The idea of a central theme was conceived by the new woman's division of the tournament. The division comprises two representatives from each of fifty Pacific Coast cities and communities.

Win That Gold Piece

BOYS AND GIRLS

CAN SEND IN COURT TITLES

UNTIL NOVEMBER 30

Although there has been a great variety of names sent to "The Beach News" as titles for the court of six cottages at Cable street and Santa Monica avenue, the opportunity to win the prize of a $5 gold piece will remain open until November 30th. Names, names and more names are wanted. Send in your selections, boys and girls, and hurry 'em along. On December 1st a complete list of the titles submitted for the court will be given to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jackson, owners of the cottages, and from that list they will choose the title that best suits their fancy. The lucky name may be the one that you will yet send in before the end of this month. The more the merrier! The name of the winner, and a complete list of the titles suggested, will be published next week.

BALBOA PARK SAVED

BY BIG DECISIVE VOTE

The proposition to locate the new State College in Balboa Park was lost at last Tuesday's election by the total vote of 15,640 noes to 6,561 ayes. The largest number of votes in a particular precinct cast against the park location was in precinct 7 (Pacific Beach), where only two affirmative votes were counted in a total of 265. Many beach residents hope to secure the state educational institution for that section, making Pacific Beach a regular college town.

W. B. McBride has sold his Barber shop on Newport avenue to W. T. Childress and son Floyd, who will take charge next Monday.

MASONIC LODGE ANNUAL ELECTION

On Thursday evening, December 2, Peninsula Lodge, No. 620, F. & A. M., will hold its annual meeting for the election of officers for the ensuing year. Franklin A. Plank, worshipful master of the lodge, urges all members to be present at this important meeting.

SECOND DEGREE

TO BE CONFERRED

Next Tuesday evening, November 30, at 8 o'clock, the second degree will be conferred by Peninsula Lodge, No. 620, F. & A. M., at the Masonic hall, 5019 Newport avenue, Ocean Beach. All master Masons are invited.

CANNED GOODS WEEK

WAS HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL

AT SAFEWAY STORES

Not only does California lead the world in the production of canned foods of every description but National Canned Foods Week marked one of the most extraordinary sales events in the history of Southern California food buying, according to the officials of the Safeway Stores, the greatest chain grocery system operating west of the Mississippi river.

Although National Canned Foods Week is a well-established national institution, made so through consistent newspaper advertising, Southern California has this year exceeded all expectations in the demand for canned foods of every description, it was emphasized.

As an indication of the extraordinary demand for the tinned article a single Safeway store led the 449 other branch Safeways by selling 20,044 cans during the week.

The canning of fruits, vegetables and other foods has, within a few years, become one of the State's most important industries. Not only is the consumption of canned food very large in the State, but exportations to foreign countries are growing by leaps and bounds yearly, it was pointed out.

The domestic demand has grown to such an extent that the Safeway Stores in many cases buys the entire output of the cannery. In the preparation for National Canned Foods Week hundreds of thousands of cases were ordered so that consumers could stock their pantries with canned delectables at lower costs than under ordinary buying conditions.

"We are highly gratified over the tremendous success of the 1926 Canned Foods Week," declared Vice-president Edward Dale of the Safeway Stores. "It goes without saying that even though California leads the world in canned food production, she is also in the forefront as a consumer of her own products."

TYPOGRAPHICAL CORRECTION

A twist of the type in the "make-up" of the Safeway Stores big display ad last week caused an error in the quantity lots of two grocery bargains. Mrs. Watson's pie crust, 8 oz. pkg., should have read 2 for 25c and Jell-Well, all flavors, fresh stock, 3 for 25c. Both are staple holiday goods greatly in demand.

News of Interest to All

Redlands' October building permits broke the record for the year when they climbed above the $200,000 mark.

A chapel to cost $10,000 is being constructed at Alhambra in connection with the Episcopal Home for the Aged.

A new church costing $35,000, to be the most imposing house of worship in Martinez, is planned by the members of the Congregational church.

Contracts have been let for improvements at the San Joaquin county hospital to cost $160,000. An annex to house employees and nurses will cost $150,000.

The Berkeley Teachers' Association announced endorsement of the $2,942,000 emergency school bond issue which is to be voted upon at a special election on December 11.

Building permits in Los Angeles show a substantial gain in October over September. The October report of valuations is $9,840,504. September building totaled $8,045,606.

Construction work has just been started in Oxnard on a one-story $125,000 bank building which is destined to be one of the finest small structures in the Oxnard vicinity.

Products of California are in greater evidence than ever before in the principal eastern cities, particularly in New York where the main docks are full of California fruits and manufactures.

"All wool and state-wide" was the slogan of a big gathering in San Francisco on November 5th and 6th, when 300 sheepmen from all parts of California assembled for their nineteenth annual convention.

The bank clearings for October reported by the Sacramento Clearing House Association, were $37,458,411.87. This figure represents a decrease for October last year, when the clearings were $42,893,345.16.

Contract to build a one-story addition to the girls' gymnasium building of the Ventura Union High School at Ventura has just been awarded Los Angeles. Plans reveal that the addition will cost $21,692.

Dr. Guy L. Hunt of Santa Rosa, has been appointed medical director of the Yosemite valley. Announcement is made that the government intends to erect a large modern hospital in the Yosemite, which Dr. Hunt will direct.

The new physics and chemistry building of the Roseville High School is being built by the students in the vocational class of the school. It will contain both laboratory and lecture rooms and will be of concrete construction.

Financial problems, with special attention to farm credits, were discussed by 250 bankers of northern and central California counties who gathered at Sacramento in a meeting of group No. 1, California Bankers Association.

Gilbert Lee Barham, or "Gillie" Barham, as he was familiarly known in Chico for the last half a century, who died in a Woodland hospital a short time ago, established the first telephone exchange in Chico thirty-four years ago.

John S. Taylor, now Santa Rosa's oldest citizen at 93, went to the polls to vote for candidates and amendments. This has become something of a habit with Taylor. He has gone to the polls without missing an election of any kind at a general, state, county, city, school district or township for 76 years.

Shortage of cotton pickers remains an acute condition in Merced county, despite the efficacious results of the marshaling of laborers by the Agricultural Labor Bureau of the San Joaquin valley, said A. R. Linn, manager of the Merced County Chamber of Commerce and a director of the valley-wide organization.

The "mother of all orange trees," the oldest living bearer of the golden fruit, will be dedicated at Oroville to the pioneers of California Saturday afternoon, November 27, as the concluding feature of the Californians' Orange and Olive Exposition, to be held at Oroville Thanksgiving week, November 23 to 27.

The sum of $40,000 has been allotted by the state for construction of a highway approach to the Solano pier of the Vallejo bridge across Carquinez Strait. Work on the road is expected to start soon, as all surveys and estimates have been approved. The work will be under the direction of the recently organized Solano-Napa County Road District.

One of the scarcest things to be found in a state penitentiary is a fat criminal. Making this claim B. B. Meek of Oroville, former member of the State Board of Prison Directors, declared that during his eight years as one of state parole agency he observed over 4,000 convicts at Folsom and San Quentin prisons and saw only one actual fat man among them.

Scientific information gained during the World War is being used at Turlock, in an experiment in the extermination of noxious weeds. Master Sergeant F. M. Nash of the chemical warfare service is trying out chlorine gas as a means of eradicating Japanese heliotrope or "blue weed." Holes twenty inches deep are drilled in the ground and blown. Chlorine gas is then introduced into the shaken lower levels by means of a hose. By next year it will be possible to determine whether or not the deep roots of the weed pest have been killed.

Completion of the new long-distance telephone cable of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company between the San Francisco Bay area and Sacramento was celebrated recently when the last splice in the big cable was made at Cordelia, Company and public officials participated in the exercises. Approximately $2,500,000 has been spent on the new line, which is 90 miles long and carries 275 talking lines between the Bay area and Crockett and 135 talking lines through to Sacramento. Enough wire to circle the earth one and one-half times is contained in this cable, which weighs about 2,000 tons and is supported upon 2,000 poles.

Despite the generally held theory that Chinese are extensive users of narcotic drugs, the state narcotic report, which will be submitted to the Legislature this winter, indicates that Americans and Mexicans constitute by far the largest percentage of "dope" addicts in California. A survey of narcotic law convictions over a period of six months in Los Angeles disclosed that 38.5 per cent of total violators were Mexicans and that 27.5 per cent were white Americans. For the same period 18 per cent were found to be American negroes, while the Chinese totaled only 13 per cent. Other nationalities made up a balance of 3 per cent.

In a rude bear trap made of logs Harry A. Cleland and James A. Cleland, Shingletown, Shasta county, caught about the biggest bear ever seen in the mountains in this region. The bear weighed 600 pounds. It took four men to load it into a truck. The animal was a brown bear. He was ferocious while a captive in the log trap. Two by six scantlings were spiked to the trap door with sixty penny nails. The bear was ripping off these scantlings when he was discovered and shot to death in the trap of logs.

There is under construction at the college of agriculture, Davis, a new type of earth building known as "pied-de-terre," or rammed earth. This building material is centuries old, having been used in many countries. However, due to the abundance of other building materials it has never been very popular in this country. There are, though, a few buildings especially on the Atlantic Coast where this type of construction was used.

H. Dana Bowers, in charge of the grounds at the University Farm at Davis, says there is a very simple and speedy method of establishing a lawn on terrace and slopes. This has always been a difficult problem, due to fact that it is hard to keep the seed in one place long enough for it to take root. However, in place of seeding, or using sod, the sack or burlap method of establishing the lawn is both quicker and easier.

Minute observations intended to more definitely establish if possible a relationship between the great redwoods of the coast country and the "big trees" of the Sequoia National Park are now being made in Sequoia Park by Major Mason, conservation forester of Oregon and member of the Save-the-Redwoods League. Superintendent John R. White of the national park has accompanied the expert to the Garfield grove.

Dick Ostendorf, manager of the Chew Mock place near Terra Bella, expects a much larger crop than that of last season. He anticipates from 20,000 to 30,000 boxes of navel from 115 acres and perhaps 30,000 boxes of Valencia from eighty-five acres. A large quantity of fertilizer has been used during the year and Ostendorf is planning to spend $15,000 for barnyard and commercial fertilizer for immediate use.

Plans have been prepared for a four-story hotel and hall building to be built at San Pedro, for the Salvation Army. The structure, estimated to cost $75,000, will be of brick construction with pressed brick exterior facing. The first floor will be given over to a large assembly hall, a reading room and several offices, and the upper floors will contain sixty hotel rooms.

Los Angeles county has 71.90 per cent of the population of the ten southern counties and 38.35 per cent of the total population of the state. Los Angeles and Orange counties have 40.39 per cent of the state's population while the nine San Francisco Bay counties have 28.04 per cent according to a report just released.

Work on what is to be the highest dam in the world is now actually under way at the forks on the San Gabriel River about eleven miles northeasterly from Azusa. It will cost about $25,000,000. It will be 492 feet in height and its span will cover a distance of 2200 feet. It will impound 240,000 acre-feet of water creating a lake about ten miles long.

All the members of the Ojai chick raising club of boys at Ventura attended the annual convention of boys' and girls' agricultural clubs at Davis in October. They returned, inspired by their visit to the State Agricultural Farm and say they expect to make greater progress during the coming year.

President of the Board of Fire Commissioners G. W. Van Behrer, Petaluma, at the meeting of the board was requested to ask the City Council to amend the city ordinance prohibiting use or maintenance of gasoline heaters or gasoline burners inside any building, tent or shelter in that city.

The city of Stockton, San Joaquin county, has selected a site for its municipal airport. It is located five miles south of Stockton, comprising 140 acres. More than $10,000 will be expended to improve laying approximately one-half mile of spur to form railroad connection.

VOGUE FOR VELVET REIGNS; RICHLY FURRED CLOTH COAT

IT IS a velvet-inspired world in which milady finds herself this season. Velvet for frocks, velvet for wraps, velvet for hats and velvet even for shoes—thus has the enchantment of velvet completely captured the mode. And now that the woman of fashion is to be velvet enrobed, she is asked to take her choice between regal dress of velvet all-black which shall scintillate with rhinestone embellishment, or frocks whose color-glorious declares that "beauty unadorned is adorned the most."

Color, ever of irresistible appeal, reaches a climax of loveliness in the supple-as-chiffon velvets, which are just now proving such a delight to the stylist. Simplicity is the keynote of the charming velvet dress in the rather than the hem borderings which were so universal last winter. The new trend is expressed in huge collars which develop into revers which extend down each side of the front to the very hemline. The ultra-smart woolen coat in the picture, which is luxuriously furred in wolf, carries out the front-opening trimming in a conspicuously unique way, by extending the collar into revers which form a triangular section at each corner. The sleeve also emphasizes the tendency toward very deep fur cuff effects, reaching half way up the arm. The importance of fantastic fur cuffs on cloth coats is one of the really new features of the mode. In accord with fashion's command the shoes which are worn with this sumptuous coat to figure. Ample width and irregular hemline is achieved through shirring at the side which is caught at the waist, giving a touch of blouseness. Nearly every other evening frock has a suggestion of pink in its effect. This particular gown is in a refined dull rose.

Leading in lustrous chiffon velvets are the fuchsia and red tones; especially is the fashionist exploiting the new explant color. Pinkish beige is another favorite hue and many young girls are choosing pale blue for their evening frocks of velvet. However, select any color and you will make no mistake for the new velvets present a galaxy of rainbow shades. A pleasing gether with the purse which this smartly attired woman is carrying, all harmonize.

Most every sort of fur is used to trim the worsted coat. It is this extensive variety of furs together with the beauty of the woollens they trim which is competing with the all-fur coat for honors. New arrivals among smooth furs embellishing the cloth coats stress beige and white spotted calfskin, pony and unshaven lamb. Long-haired furs emphasize red fox, also wolf dyed to blend with the cloaking it trims. Quite a few coats show a lining of spotted leopard either real or simulating the genuine.

theme is the frock of one shade of velvet worn under an evening wrap of velvet in darker shade.

Clever manipulation of fabrics is the stylist's joy and pride in creating new modes, and especially in velvet is adroit handling of the material featured. The dainty supple lightweight character of modern velvet yields gracefully to generous shirring and the smartest gowns and wraps make profuse use of this treatment.

For the black velvet frock, yokes and sleeves, especially the latter of real lace or black chantilly, also gold lace are the latest style touch.

Outstanding style prestige is bestowed for the lavishly furred cloth coat. Not only the luxuriousness of the fur itself, but the novelty in its placement on the coat adds enthusiasm to the vogue.

CENSUS REVEALS ASTONISHING FACT

8,549,511 Working Women in United States

MRS. W. M. BAILEY
R. F. D. No. 5, BOX 27, ATLANTA, GEORGIA

Many Say Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helps Keep Them Fit to Work

8,549,511 women would be a vast army. According to the 1920 Census of Manufactures, that is the number of women and girls employed in all trades in the United States.

Napoleon said, "An army travels on its stomach." This army of women travels on its general health. Every working girl knows that time lost through illness seldom is paid for and seldom can be made up. Employers demand regularity. If she wants to keep her job or hopes for a better one, she must guard her health.

Atlanta, Ga.—"My system was weak and run-down, and I was tired. I was this way for five years or more. I read your advertisement in the papers and I decided to try your medicine, the Vegetable Compound, but I did not begin to take it regularly until after I was married. I got so much good from it that I feel fine and have gained in weight. I work in a broom shop, but my work is not so hard on me now, and I keep my own house, and work my garden, too. I am telling all my friends of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and how it has helped me."—Mrs. W. M. Bailey, R. F. D. No. 5, Box 27, Atlanta, Georgia.

Missouri Woman Helped

Parkville, Mo.—"I am proud to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was so ill that I could not lie down at night. Then I got my husband to go to the store and buy me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I was up and around before the first bottle was gone, although I only weighed about ninety pounds. I took six or eight bottles and was able to do all my housework, washing and ironing, take care of my five boys, and tend to my chickens and garden, where before I had to hire my washing and part of my housework."—Mrs. ANNA COLE, R. The Indoor-Outdoor Closet

Personally, I have always had a great awe of walls. A wall is to me as permanent as a mountain and as changeless as the stars. I would no sooner think of altering a house wall than I would of making a change in the calendar! Probably that is why I so much admire a certain woman of my acquaintance who makes new openings in her walls as simply and easily as she moves the bed into another corner and puts the bookcase where the couch used to be. At one time, when I went to see her, she had just cut a new window in a space on her living-room wall, so that she could see a great white pine which stood across the street. Another time she cut a door (or had the carpenter do it) between two bedrooms, to make for greater convenience. A wall was no barrier to her!

The latest liberty she has taken with her walls, however, is one I have almost courage enough to follow. This time it is her kitchen wall, on the side which runs along the back porch of her suburban home. She calmly had a hole the size of a door cut in this wall, and in the aperture she had built a substantial closet, equipped with shelves and furnished with cupboard doors on both sides. That is, a pair of doors opened into the closet from the kitchen and another pair opened into it from the porch.

"You see," she explained, "in winter weather the milk bottles used to be placed on the back step and would freeze solid before I got up and brought them in. Often, too, I would be out when the grocer's boy came to deliver, and the vegetables, lettuce, celery and other freezables would be killed by the cold. So I devised this cupboard. The milkman and trades people come up on the porch, open the doors and put the food in on the shelves and close the doors. The body of the closet is in the warm kitchen, so the foods are safe. When I come in I open the doors in the kitchen and lift the articles out.

"This keeps foods free from dust and tramps as well, to say nothing of stray dogs and cats. At night the doors are locked from the inside, and I have never missed anything yet. It keeps the cold winter wind out of the kitchen, too, for the outer doors are closed when I go to get my provender. The closet acts as a sort of winter refrigerator, for while it is not cold enough to freeze foods it is cold enough to preserve them. My double cupboard is one of my greatest comforts."

Tassels

Decoratively speaking, this is the day of the tassel. Once laughed at as being about as extinct as the dodo, it now dangles its pretty pendants from our chandeliers, our window shades, bell pulls, picture cords, table runners, and cushion corners. In fact, there is almost no article of home adornment that cannot be appropriately topped off with a tassel or so.

This is a revival, of course, of the quaint fashions of our grandmothers. Pictures hung by large twisted cords, from which hung huge worsted tassels, flourished a half-century or so ago and are again in vogue along with hooked rugs, candlewick bedspreads, and woven bell pulls. In some cases the tassel hangs from the gilt nail-head which holds the picture cord in an inverted V; in other cases the picture cords run straight to the molding from the two upper corners of the picture, and the tassel hangs over the edge of the frame at each corner. The picture itself, or perhaps an old mirror, should be old-fashioned in feeling.

Tassels attached to the chain pulls for lighting electric lamps are equally pretty for side sconces or ceiling electrolights. The colorful Japanese tassels are attractive in a room where the lamp shades, lacquered stands, and Chinese basket chairs are used. Silk tassels to match hangings and cushions may be used for bridge lamps or to finish the twin ropes of colored cord which pull window draperies together in the evening.

Oval couch pillows or oblong bedside cushions are very attractive when finished with a tassel at each end. Some of these tassels are quite large and heavy. The cushion in the sketch is a soft roll pillow of French blue silk, with a band of brocade satin around the center in lovely shades of green, lavender, silver and blue, and each end is finished with a large silver cabochon of cord, holding a green silk tassel. The same colors are shown in the lamp shade, and a green tassel of commanding size is attached to the light-pull.

SOMEONE'S MOUNTAINS

Someone, the little gnome, who was taking Mahalla around and showing her the Valley of Memories, also wanted to show her the mountains which surrounded the valley.

Someone was the creature people meant when they said that they, perhaps, did not know what a thing meant, but that Someone did.

Someone had also told Mahalla how the happy hours and the jolly memories came to this place after they were through with their time among the real people.

But that whenever the real people wanted them again they could recall them to their memories by thinking of them.

"Now," said Someone, "I must point out the mountains to you."

"We hope you will like our mountains and think this is a trip worth having."

Mahalla thought she had never seen so beautiful a place as this.

"There is the Mountain of Trying to Win the Highest Prize in School. That's a fine mountain. You can see it just off to the right."

"Then there is the Mountain of Trying to Become a Great Musician."

"That is almost the highest mountain we have."

"There is the Mountain of Leading the School Team to Victory. Oh, we have so many mountains."

"You see, they surround our valley of memories because there are so many people who have played a part in building these mountains without realizing it.

"I Must Point Out the Mountains."

"There are some who have tried to win prizes or to help the school team or do something very fine but who haven't quite succeeded."

"In your world they may feel failures. But there is no such thing as a failure in our part of the world."

"For every effort and attempt and feeling and wish to succeed and be of some help to others, to the school or to themselves, has helped to make our mountains."

"Each single effort has added something and that is why our mountains are so very high."

"Here in the valley are all these lovely times we have had which we like to think of again."

"You will see that the flowers each have names attached."

Mahalla went around and looked, and there she found that each flower had a little name attached to it.

"Why I find my own name," she cried excitedly. And there, attached to a bright, bright golden rod was a little piece of paper on which was written: "Mahalla's happiest birthday."

"Oh, that's when I was eight years old—last year," she said. "I just love to think of that birthday."

"Of course," said Someone, "and so it is here for you. The flower itself does not come to you but the memory is sent by the flower whenever it is wanted and the Breeze Brothers carry it to you."

Mahalla looked all about and found so many interesting things to see and read and think about.

She found other gnomes and fairies and brownies and they talked to her in much the same way as Someone had talked to her, for Someone had been wanted and so Someone had dashed off for a little bit.

Just Stepped on Water

Four-year-old C. J. was fond of mud puddles. After a rain one day this summer, he came into the house bearing all the signs of a first-hand acquaintance with a mud puddle. His mother scolded him. Said she: "Why—Why will you wade in those mud puddles?"

Little C. J. answered: "Well, I didn't 'actly wade, mother. I just stepped on that water, and it went down with me."

Knew It All

Benton was bragging that his father knew "bout ever'thin' but Ted was not at all sure that he did.

He could remember several times when he had answered right straight to some question, "Well, really, Ted, I'm sure I don't know."

But he wanted to brag of his father, too, and so he said: "Well, my father doesn't know ever'thin', but we got a dictionary that knows the rest."

If Kidneys Act Bad Take Salts

Says Backache Often Means You Have Not Been Drinking Enough Water

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean that you have been eating foods which create acids, says a well-known authority. An excess of such acids overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink. Drink lots of soft water.

THE EDITOR.

Editor, "The Beach News":

Dear Sir: I am pleased to see that the "Park is saved" for this time, but how long will it be before the government, or the School Board will demand another grab of it? Pleased to read that the "Save Park Committee" is to be a permanent institution to guard our rights.

We understood the deed said this was to be a citizens "Park Forever." If this is only a "scrap of paper," if words and conditions of title do not mean anything, how do we know our homes are safe?

It was well that enough voters went to the polls to rebuke those selfish ones who would ruin our heritage. (What is left of it.) Wait until some of those lawyer-politicians again asks for votes. We will remember. While the city cash box is empty, and all parts of the city is in need of money for necessary repairs, it was mean to force the Council to spend thousands of dollars for this election.

Respectfully submitted,
ZENAS.LOCKED IN THE BAGGAGE CAR

Written for "The Beach News"

By Edith Bowker

4871 Narragansett Ave., O. B.

"Mama, mama," cried little Jeanette, at the front pile of trunks on the porch upon coming home from school. "Where are we going?"

"We are going to New York," replied her mother. "So make haste and put on your traveling clothes; Marie will help you run along now."

By the time Jeanette came down the trunks were in the express wagon, so Jeanette and her mother jumped into daddy's big limousine and drove to the station.

When they arrived mama and daddy went to get the tickets and told Jeanette to get on the train.

Of course Jeanette did not know which train to take, so she jumped on the baggage car and in a few minutes the train started up.

Poor little Jeanette sat waiting in the midst of a large pile of trunks for her mother and father, but they didn't come.

Meanwhile Jeanette's mother and father were hunting for her. After about an hour of searching, the porter stepped in to announce that there was a small girl in the baggage car and he described her just as she was. Then her father and mother went into the baggage car, only to find Jeanette fast asleep on a bed of trunks.

BALBOA THEATRE

Through out the laugh preservers, Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatten are seen as a couple of green gobs who enter the Navy much against their will. In fact, they are entirely oblivious of the fact that they had become sailors until they tried to leave the naval training camp. Then—they were informed "You're in the Navy Now." This notable picture will be at the Balboa theatre for one week starting today.

One of the most brilliant and colorful is Fanchon and Marco's latest "Idea", entitled "Dance Poems", featuring Eddie Foyer, the "Man of a Thousand Poems". Foyer is a master of the parlor entertainment of a decade or two ago, when folks from six to sixty were ready to vocalize anything from Webster's "Reply to Hayne" to "She Wears No Wedding Ring". Foyer is a living denial of the plaintiff that the art of the elocutionist is passing. The engagement of "The Man of a Thousand Poems" should draw every English student in the city to see the Dance Poem "Idea" at Balboa theatre this week.

Carlos and Jinette, featured dance team in the elaborate literary-musical presentation, have an enviable record for stage and screen work, having appeared almost constantly for three years in both. Carlos and Jinette, "double" for many of the stars in motion picture productions.

Aida Kawakami, dance sensation of the Orient, is another artist appearing in "Dance Poems". Ethel Pearson, piquette dancer, Marguerite Shawl, toe dancer, William Richie, acrobatic dancer, and a big company which includes a Fanchon and Marco ballet of boys and girls, another hit of the show, completes the cast.

FORMER RESIDENT RETURNS FROM COLORADO

Mrs. M. A. Clark, an old time former resident of Ocean Beach, who has been residing in Rifle, Colorado, for the last six years has returned to remain permanently and would be glad to meet her old friends again at the Fern Court on Narragansett avenue. Mrs. Clark states that she is very much pleased with the wonderful growth of Ocean Beach, but not so very much surprised, as she was kept well informed through "The Beach News" which she received regularly each week.

Visitors From Long Island

Rev. and Mrs. W. S. Dunn were pleasantly surprised by a visit from Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McDermott, of Riverhead, L. I., New York, on Tuesday evening of this week. Mr. and Mrs. McDermott are making an extended tour of California with a view of locating here in the future.

GIORAS AVPHIT CLUB

The Gioras Avphit club held their weekly meeting in the First Baptist church last Tuesday evening. There were twenty-seven girls present and they enjoyed a splendid supper. The room was decorated in Thanksgiving colors and a happy time was enjoyed throughout the evening by all in attendance.

ON ROAD TO RECOVERY

Mrs. D. C. Crosby, who has been seriously ill for some time, is reported to be improving at the residence of her brother, Kenneth W. Crosby, where it is quiet.

HERE FROM PITTSBURGH

Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Schmidt arrived here from Pittsburgh, Pa., early this week and are residing for the winter in one of the Lyman cottages on Cape May avenue. Mr. Schmidt is a retired eastern railroad man.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Clarke have moved from San Diego to Ocean Beach and are residing at 4926 Saratoga avenue.

Pat McCune is baking in Ocean Beach, his own pastry, cakes and pies and all the dainties anyone desires at the Home Delicatessen and Bakery on Newport avenue.

DUTCH HOUSEWIVES LED THE WAY

Dutch housewives were the first to preserve pineapple. These thrifty settlers of Fernambough, back in the seventh century contrived a way to make a pineapple preserve which they sent back to Holland in large consignments. The first gifts of it brought many requests for more. These gifts, borne by the slow old sailing vessels were the forerunners of the huge consignments of pineapple which are now sent in prepared form from Hawaii to all the rest of the world.

PINEAPPLE AS A MEDICINE

None of the disagreeable qualities of taste that one associates with medicine are to be found in pineapple, yet it has excellent medicinal properties of its own. Pineapple has a remarkable soothing effect on any inflamed mucous membrane. Its delicious flavor makes it particularly appealing when a sore-throat hampers eating. It also contains an enzyme which is a property of the digestive juice. It is highly nourishing as well as soothing and good to taste.

CABRILLO THEATRE

Milton Sills and Betty Bronson, present one of the truly big pictures of the season at the Cabrillo Theatre, this week. The story concerns the clash of brawny men fighting for a dot of land, at the world's edge—and a girl.

The second feature in the double header for Cabrillo theatre presents Ken Maynard, a new star in a "Western" story that is fascinating, and exciting.

Ken Maynard is a "discovery" of Charles R. Rogers. He is blessed with all the requisites of a film star. Maynard has youth, good looks, personality and talents as an actor, horseman and athlete, and he is destined to achieve quick popularity with his elevation to stardom, according to predictions by noted motion picture authorities.

Good music by Raymond Godden at the organ, is added to the exceptional program of two outstanding feature pictures. A real treat is in store for Cabrillo "fans" this week.

TO OUR REGULAR YEARLY SUBSCRIBERS

With the current commencement of the fifth year of "The Beach News," subscriptions are now due and are payable by mail, or at the main office, 4829 Saratoga avenue, or at the following agencies: Froide's Foto Finishing Co., 1868 Bacon street; Kraft's Drug Store, Bacon street; Ocean Beach Realty Co., 4999 Voltaire street. The subscription price remains at one dollar per year.

ASK "JIM" FROIDE ABOUT THIS LATEST WAY OF PHOTOGRAPHING YOURSELF

"Photograph yourself—Eight poses in eight minutes," reads a sign over a new store recently opened on Broadway in New York's theater district. Big boxes like telephone booths stand around the walls. A patron steps into one, drops a quarter in a slot and immediately is flooded with bright light while a camera snaps at him eight times in 20 seconds. The light goes off and the patron steps out and waits. Exactly seven and a half minutes later a strip of eight finished pictures is ejected. A one-tenth horsepower electric motor does it all. It turns on and off the light, draws a strip of sensitized paper through the lens, snaps the camera, conducts the paper through one chemical bath after another and finally dries it with a hot fan and hands it to the customer.

A New Home for the Supreme Court

LAST we're going to provide a permanent home for our highest judicial body—the Supreme Court of the United States. It came to Washington in 1801, and since that time has been housed within the walls of the national capitol. Its present home, despite the bonds of an intensely historic past, has been outgrown.

Throughout America the small-town courthouse is generally the show place of the community, but in Washington the visitor has a difficult time in locating the nation's courtroom. And when it is found it proves not only physically unattractive but also inadequate for the purpose it must serve.

This situation will be changed if the next congress sees fit to provide an appropriation for a new temple of justice of which the nation can be proud. The proposed site lies just across the plaza east of the capitol, easily visible through towering trees from the halls of congress. This site at present is occupied by an apartment building and the "Old Capitol" structure, now headquarters of the National Woman's party.

On this historic spot it is proposed to erect a building which will be adequate for the needs and in harmony with the dignity of the United States Supreme Court. The late Henry Bacon had drawn the plans for the new structure before his death early in 1924. Bacon's masterpiece is the Lincoln memorial. After finishing it he declared there was only one more work he would like to do—a building for the Supreme Court of the United States.

In addition to the courtroom the new building will provide ample space for the private offices of the justices, facilities for the various court assistants, adequate library space, and more suitable accommodation for the reception of counsel who come to appear before this high tribunal.

Where is the Supreme Court housed now? Walking north along the capitol corridor from the house of representatives, one first comes to a passageway guarded by two busts, one of James R. Mann and the other of Champ Clark, former speaker of the house. A few feet farther is Statuary hall, filled with its statues of Americans who have been deemed worthy of such honor. Next is the rotunda under whose magnificent dome you find guides proclaiming the merits of the large paintings portraying the baptism of Pocahontas and the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown. On through the rotunda one passes next a circle of columns. Just beyond is an almost unnoticed doorway. Over it is a shield of the United States.

Inside this doorway is the courtroom of the United States Supreme Court. It is much like any other courtroom. Behind the long bench in the fore part of the room sit the justices in comfortable leather chairs, with the chief justice in the middle. In front of the bench are places for counsel. Toward the rear is a semicircle of seats for visitors. The room's capacity is scarcely 150 persons.

Facing the courtroom, on the opposite side of the corridor, are two rooms occupied by the clerk of the court and his aids. Here are found the names of those admitted to practice before this tribunal. Next to these rooms, on the north, is the robing room, lined with portraits, including several of John Marshall. Here the justices go to don their robes before filing into the courtroom, in the order of their appointment, behind the chief justice.

Below in the basement is a conference room, where the justices gather to discuss cases. Because of lack of other space, some 16,000 volumes are crowded into this room. Across the hall is the library of the court.

The present facilities are utterly inadequate. There is not even enough room for each justice to have a private office. Justice Sutherland and Justice Sanford have a room at the capitol and Justice Stone has one in the senate office building, but the other members of the court maintain their offices at their private residences.

The Supreme Court first met in New York city in February, 1790. No business appeared and nothing happened for a considerable time other than the admission of a few counselors. After two terms in New York city, the government having been transferred to Philadelphia, the court also met there.

When preparations were being made for a federal city, elaborate provisions were agreed on for housing the executive and legislative branches, but apparently no one remembered the Supreme Court. Finally the Washington commissioners sent a letter to congress calling attention to the oversight. That a room in the capitol was then assigned is shown by a statement found in the "Annals of Congress" of January 21, 1801, sandwiched between items relating to the erection of a mausoleum to George Washington and a discussion of a tariff on liquors.

The court moved out to various quarters in the capitol, for most of the time prior to 1860 occupying a basement room. In 1850 Robert Mills, a famous Washington architect, said,

"The death of some of our most talented jurists has been attributed to this location of the courtroom, and it would be but common justice in congress to provide better accommodations for its sittings."

Finally, in 1859, it was proposed that the old senate chamber be used for the court, together with several adjoining office rooms. The suggestion was severely criticized, one senator remarking, "Now I would like to know what use there can be for fourteen rooms for the Supreme court."

The proposal carried, however. The old chamber, now the courtroom, is indeed historic. There, on May 12, 1846, the senate passed "An act providing for the prosecution of the existing war between the United States and the Republic of Mexico." There, on March 7, 1850, Webster rose and began, "Mr. President, I wish to speak today, not as a Massachusetts man, nor as a northern man, but as an American. . . . I speak today for the preservation of the Union."

One of the most dramatic scenes witnessed in the chamber occurred when Representative Brooks of South Carolina approached Charles Sumner of Massachusetts, as the latter was seated at his desk after the day's proceedings. Referring to an address delivered by Sumner on slavery, Brooks said, "You have libeled my state and I feel it to be my duty to punish you for it."

He then struck Sumner repeatedly with a heavy cane. One who testified at the resulting inquiry remarked, "The same licks on an ordinary skull would have smashed right through." Sumner apparently had no ordinary skull, and he survived to take a prominent part in the bitter battles of reconstruction. The visitor to the courtroom today notices nine busts of the former chief justices ranged about the wall. One is of John Marshall, of whom it is said that his brilliance was only exceeded by his informality—that he often took his place on the bench with burrs sticking in his clothes, that he pitched quoits and went to market with a basket on one arm.

In everything except adequate surroundings the Supreme court has been enlarged. The number of justices has risen from six to nine. The salary has increased from $4,000 for the chief justice and $3,500 for the associate justices to $15,000 and $14,500, respectively. The number of cases has risen tremendously. In the early days the court frequently adjourned for lack of business, and for many years there was a very limited number of cases, while at the beginning of the October (1925) term there were 1,309 cases on the docket.

even though he were to persuade himself that the men who stoned him were but ugly passions incarnate—who knows that he is stoned, not for professing the right, but for not being the man he professed to be.—George Eliot, in "Middlemarch."

Accounting for "Island"

"Island" is an Anglo-Saxon word of which the derivation is not clear. Probably it followed the custom observed in saying headland, neck of land, tongue of land, brow of a hill mouth of a river, back or foot of a hill and arm of the sea. Its resemblance to an eye led it to be called an island. The "s" probably resulted from confusion with the French word isle.

Differing Qualities

"Some women," an Indiana paper thinks, "are unhappy because their husbands overdo the job of trying to make them happy." Some, perhaps, but not enough to worry about.—Capron's Weekly

EL SALVADOR

Industrious Country Women of Salvador.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

SALVADOR, the only Central American member of the newly elected League of Nations council, is the smallest American republic.

El Salvador, as the people themselves call their volcano-girded, forest-fringed country, lies on the west coast of Central America, a week's sail by coastwise steamer north from Panama. It is the only country between Canada and Colombia without an Atlantic as well as a Pacific seaboard. It has the densest rural population on the mainland of the Americas, with 1,400,000 people occupying an area no larger than the state of New Jersey.

Sailing along the Salvador coast, one's first characteristic view of the country is likely to include the volcano Izalco; and not unlikely it will be seen in eruption, for it sends out flows almost as regularly as the Old Faithful geyser of Yellowstone park sends out steam and water.

Seafaring men called Izalco "The Lighthouse of Salvador." To the Salvadorians this active volcano was known formerly as "The Safety Valve." They believed that its daily eruption assured their deliverance from severe earthquake and devastating lava flow. Then came the fateful day when Izalco ceased erupting, followed by those terrible earthquakes which in part demolished the capital, while another, heretofore dormant, volcano in a densely populated district rocketed forth a living stream of fire, which completely destroyed towns and fincas (estates), and for miles around covered that season's coffee crop with a fine lava dust.

If one enters Salvador through Acajutla, he will disembark in an open roadstead a mile out at sea and go ashore in a launch. From this he must be hoisted to the pier by a crane in a swinging chair.

A visit to a country estate in the near-by hills of the balsam coast is a most delightful experience. The house of such an estate will probably be set in a magnificent forest of giant balsam trees, whose trunks bear scars made by a pre-Columbian people, who tapped them then for the scented halm in much the same method employed today.

Balsam and Coffee.

The balsam tree, one of the most beautiful of the tropical forest, is cousin to the acacia. It grows rather isolated from its neighbors, even from its kind, its graceful branches high above the ground. Native to the west coast of Central America, it has been exploited only in Salvador, where it grows in a limited area of 750 square miles. It has of late years been introduced into Ceylon.

The method of the balsam tappers is primitive. Although the tree holds sap all year round, the tapping takes place only in the dry season. The outer bark is first cut with a blunt instrument, leaving the inner bark exposed, the flow of sap being stimulated by the application of a burning torch.

After several days the sap exudes slowly, but steadily. Cloths attached to the wounds, having become impregnated with the balsam, are collected, thrown into boiling water, and subjected to heavy pressure. The crude balsam settles at the bottom and the water is then poured off.

The balsam, later clarified through the evaporation of impurities, is packed in metal cases for shipment to Europe and America, where it is used for medicinal purposes and as a basis for perfume. Every morning at such an estate a servant walks through the house waving a burning balsam branch. One lives in an atmosphere deliciously perfumed.

In the coffee tree, however, with its creamy flower and ruddy berry, rather than the rare balsam, lay the wealth of the planters. A few seasons ago Salvador's coffee output totaled 75,000,000 pounds. It goes mostly to France and the United States.

The Salvadorians should erect a monument to the Brazilian school teacher who, in 1840, brought the coffee tree there from his own country. The day he planted that first coffee tree in his garden he laid the cornerstone of the Salvadorian prosperity.

The Salvadorian aristocracy is of Spanish and other European blood, many Britishers, Frenchmen, Belgians, Italians and Germans, having married into the old Spanish-Colonial families; but the masses are of Amerind stock, with a Spanish admixture—that stock we loosely call Indian. Salvador boasts of having very little African blood.

Often on the highway one meets a bronzed man or woman with those pronounced features and unique profile typical of the ancient Maya people whose temples, in jungle-clad ruins, are strewn from Honduras to Yucatan. Such place names as Chalatenango, Cuscatlan, Usulután, and their like hark back to the shadowy past.

In the evening guests at country houses sit with their hosts under a brilliant canopy of stars, listening to alluring Spanish songs with guitar accompaniment and sometimes a serenade by the marimba players.

Life in the Country.

Most of the people live in the healthful uplands, the volcanic region. San Miguel, one of the highest of these volcanoes, has an altitude of 7,000 feet. Nearly the entire country is suitable for cultivation, the soil, consisting mainly of decomposed lava, being exceedingly fertile. This, and the fact that the majority of the people are land holders, accounts for the teeming population, the industry and contentment to be noted everywhere.

One of the oldest of the products, long the chief export of the country, is indigo. This native plant (liguillote) supplied the dye of the ancient inhabitants. Sugar now ranks as an important export. In the days of the forty-niners, the greater part of the rum consumed by the California miners came from Salvador. Rice, like sugar, was brought from the Old world; but cacao, corn and tobacco, are indigenous. Turkeys are kept in flocks in the tobacco fields to devour the worms and insects on the tender leaves of the plants.

Corn and beans are the staple articles of diet among the poorer classes. Corn cakes (tortillas), sturdy cousins of our hot cakes, form the plate on which the frijoles are heaped.

Coffee is prepared in the form of a strong extract, a teaspoonful or two being added to a cupful of hot milk. Among tropical fruits is the delicious nispero, the fruit of the tree Achras sapota which supplies the sap known commercially as chicle, the basis of chewing gum.

In the cattle-country cattle are not only abundant, but seem to thrive with little or no attention. Beef is moderate in price. As in all tropical countries, meat must here be cooked and eaten the day the animal is killed.

Gold and silver rank high among Salvador's products. Up-to-date methods in gold mining were introduced twenty-five years ago, when an energetic American engineer obtained a property of high-grade ore and installed, with British capital, a most complete equipment. Later, acquiring a large tract of low-grade ore, he agreed to permit government students to complete their studies in mining and metallurgy at his properties.

In the Capital City.

San Salvador, the capital, with 75,000 inhabitants, is connected with the port of Acajutla by an English railway. It lies 65 miles inland and a little over 2,000 feet above the sea. The railroad crosses the territory devastated by the 1917 lava flow from the volcano, San Salvador.

The capital, even in the shadow of its smoking namesake, was quickly rebuilt. Although founded in 1525, it has quite a modern air. While one-story structures predominate, there are a number of splendid government and municipal buildings of reinforced concrete and several fine parks. Because of tragic lessons of the past, the cathedral is constructed of wood painted to resemble stone.

The main market overflows into the surrounding streets. Besides the native merchants, Chinese, Turks and Armenians are in evidence. Delicacies in the food line, unfamiliar to us, are fresh-water shrimps the size of small lobsters, tortoise eggs, and snails.

City property pays a tax, but rural property pays nothing to the state and only a small sum to the municipal authorities. The main income of the state comes from the export and import duties, the exports exceeding the imports.

Keep Fit!

Good Health Requires Good Elimination.

TO be well, you must keep the blood stream free from impurities. If the kidneys lag, allowing body poisons to accumulate, a toxic condition is created. One is apt to feel dull, languid, tired and aching. A nagging backache is sometimes a symptom, with drowsy headaches and dizzy spells. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is often shown by burning or scanty passage of secretions. If you have reason to suspect improper kidney functioning, try Doan's Pills—a tested stimulant diuretic. Users praise them throughout the United States. Ask your neighbor!

Richard III

RICHARD III—hero and scoundrel; genius and degenerate, great king and greater criminal—stands out through all time as the "heavy villain" of medieval England's history drama: And that same drama was one of the bloodiest and most turbulent ever enacted.

During the four centuries since the Norman Duke William had conquered England many changes had come to the island kingdom. Most important of these was the substitution of English for French as a court and national language. The Normans had tried to make England a French-speaking nation. The stubborn Saxons had refused to give up their crude native tongue. Little by little, thanks to this resistance, the earlier English, modified by certain French words and linguistic forms, became the accepted tongue of the country. This was practically the same as the English we speak today.

The Black prince's son, Richard II, was deposed by his cousin, Henry of Lancaster (son of the Black prince's younger brother), who took the throne as Henry IV. The usurper's son, Henry V, conquered nearly all of France and died while still a young man. His infant son, Henry VI, was called king of France as well as of England. But while he was still a youth Joan of Arc roused France to cast off the British yoke. Then, having no longer a foreign foe on whom to vent their aggressive, warlike tempers, the English turned against each other in a series of civil wars.

The cause of these conflicts was as follows: Henry VI was weak and semi-imbecile. The powerful duke of York claimed descent from a brother of the Black prince older than the brother from whom Henry was descended. He therefore declared himself rightful heir to the throne, and went to war to make good his title. His followers adopted the white rose as their badge, while the Lancastrians (Henry's adherents) wore red roses. The contest thus became known as "The Wars of the Roses." It began in 1455 and endured off and on for thirty years.

The duke of York was killed at the Battle of Wakefield, 1460, but his three sons, Edward, George and Richard, kept up the strife. Success fell first to one faction and then to the other; and intervals of peace recurred; but in the main the nation had little breathing space. At length, at the battles of Barnet and Tewkesbury, 1465 (where on both occasions Richard led the Yorkist's vanguard to victory), Edward wholly routed the Lancastrians and was undisputed king of England, with the title of Edward IV. His brother George, who had once turned traitor but had come back to the Yorkist cause, was duke of Clarence, and Richard, the youngest brother, was duke of Gloucester. To make Edward's throne more secure, Henry VI and the latter's son, Edward, prince of Wales, were murdered. The crime is generally laid at Richard's door, as is the subsequent murder of George, duke of Clarence. Edward IV died in 1483, leaving his two little sons under Richard's guardianship and appointing Richard "Lord Protector of the Kingdom" during the elder son's minority.

Richard thus found himself with only two lives between him and the crown of England. He laid his plans with a demonic ingenuity and set out at once to fulfill them. His first step was to execute on various pretexts such noblemen as were adherents of Edward's two boys. Then, by lobbying, threats and false claims, he caused an irregular election to be held and had parliament proclaim him king. The two little princes, Edward's sons, were put out of the way, presumably by Richard's hired assassins, and the "Lord Protector," having waded to the throne through his kinfolk's blood, began his reign as King Richard III. To the surprise of all, he governed the country justly and wisely.

But the beaten Lancastrians were growing restive. Their party's only remaining claimant to the crown was Henry Tudor, earl of Richmond. Oddly enough, he also had a strong trace of the ancient British blood, thus uniting in himself the Norman and early English strains. He had been banished, but in 1485 he returned to England and drew to him a powerful faction. Richard, at the head of a large army, marched in person against him. The two forces met at Bosworth on August 22, 1485. After a hotly contested battle, in which the king performed prodigies of valor, Richmond won a decisive victory. Richard was slain on the field. Richmond came to the throne as Henry VII, and strengthened his cause by marrying Princess Elizabeth of York, thus uniting the rival houses of York and Lancaster.

Richard III is described by Shakespeare and other sixteenth century writers as a dwarf hunchback. This idea is absurd. No man so handicapped could have performed the personal feats of strength and valor that were ascribed to him. His character presents one of the strangest paradoxes of history. He was conscienceless, devoid of scruple or honor, ferocious, cruel, and bloodthirsty even for those iron times. Yet he was a wise and just king, a general second to none, a hero in battle, and of marvelous mental attainments.

Popular San Diego Woman Recovers From Long Illness

Amazing Improvement in Mrs. Jester's Health Surprises Friends. Serious Ailments Caused by Nervous Breakdown Relieved and Strength Restored by Tanlac. Looks and Feels Better Than Ever

"Tanlac has certainly done wonders for me; I cannot praise it enough," declares Mrs. T. D. Jester, 1268 Pennsylvania Avenue, San Diego, Calif. "I had suffered a nervous breakdown, and for many months afterward I continued to get worse and worse, despite all the different nerve medicines I tried. Nothing seemed to help until I tried Tanlac."

"I was as near to being a complete nervous and physical wreck as I could be, without entirely collapsing. The slightest noise would make me want to scream, and after retiring it would be hours before I could sleep. I would awaken with terrible nervous headaches and the slightest exertion would tire me out so that I would be trembling. I lost weight and appetite. I tried Tanlac with little expectation of improvement."

"Before I had taken all of the first bottle, I developed a ravenous appetite, and was sleeping better. I continued to improve rapidly and felt like a different person entirely. In less than three weeks I had gained seven pounds! Later, my weight went up from 105 to 125 pounds."

If your troubles are similar to those from which Mrs. Jester suffered so keenly, get relief before it is too late! Tanlac will doubtless help you just as it helped Mrs. Jester—and as it has helped thousands of other sufferers. Tanlac is a pure and wholesome compound, made from herbs, roots and barks, according to the famous Tanlac formula. It is a wonderful tonic medicine, for run-down and nervous conditions and for digestive disorders. All good druggists sell Tanlac—get your first bottle today! Over 40 million bottles sold.

No Secrets to Making Perfect Cup of Coffee

Can Be Achieved By Following A Few Simple Rules Says Famous Cooking Expert

By Mildred Maddocks Bentley

Formerly Director of Good Housekeeping Institute

What is the secret of first-rate coffee—the kind that starts the day right—that makes you feel "like a million dollars"?

Literally hundreds of women—and a surprising number of men—have asked me this question in one form or another. And it's an important one—for what can be more blighting to domestic happiness than a cup of muddy coffee or coffee improperly "creamed"? And, on the contrary, what can be more exhilarating than a good cup—fragrant, golden, delicious?

Luckily there's no hidden secret about making and serving the perfect coffee—it's just a matter of minding your p's and q's and following a few simple directions.

Selection of Coffee
There are many excellent brands of coffee in the market—the choice of one of these is largely a matter of individual taste. But I do want to say that usually coffee in the bean retains its flavor longer than in the ground form—so, if possible, buy the whole beans and grind your coffee fresh for each meal. If, however, the breakfast hour—or fifteen minutes—is too hectic to admit of this extra step, at least keep your ground coffee in an air tight container—a glass fruit jar for instance. And it's well to remember that the more finely the coffee is ground, the easier it is to extract its full strength and flavor—consequently finely-ground coffee is economical and time-saving.

The Coffee Pot
Connoisseurs maintain that coffee brewed in a metal pot has a less delicate flavor than in a container of glass, stone-ware or agate. Whatever kind of coffee pot you prefer—it should be scoured frequently and occasionally "boiled out" with water to which a pinch of baking soda has been added—then rinsed, dried, and left uncovered.

If a percolator is used, the pipe should be carefully washed every day with a brush to remove all scum from the preceding brew.

For drip coffee, if you do not have a special drip coffee pot, an ordinary one equipped with a double cheesecloth bag will serve the purpose. The cheesecloth should be washed in cold water after using and renewed at least once a week. Keep the bag always moist.

The "Creaming"
This I consider quite as important as the actual brewing. Good coffee can so easily be spoiled by using cream of inferior quality or the "top of the bottle" if carelessly poured off. In my study of food habits, I am finding that every year more and more people prefer sweetened condensed milk in their coffee. You see this kind is twice as rich and creamy as ordinary milk and furthermore already contains sugar, thus serving the additional purpose of sweetening the coffee. Try it for a few days, and I think you will agree that the condensed milk gives a delightfully rich, smoothly blended drink, bringing out the real coffee flavor. And of course it is very convenient, as it keeps fresh without ice even after the can is opened—and the cost is extremely moderate.

Now as to the actual methods of brewing. There are several and your choice is entirely a matter of individual taste. If the directions are carefully followed, any of the methods will yield the "perfect cup of coffee"—mellow in flavor, with a delicate, fragrant aroma, free from sediment and of a dark golden hue.

Bolled Coffee
Rinse the pot with hot water, put the coffee in the pot—each cup of boiling water, with an additional spoon "for the pot." Add a little white of egg, or water, stirring briskly. Add the boiling water, place the coffee pot over heat, and bring to a full boil. Place on back of the stove or over low heat for about ten minutes to settle, before serving. Do not allow the coffee to become unsettled by careless pouring.

Percolated Coffee
Use one cup of finely-ground coffee to six cups of boiling water. Place the coffee in the strainer in the upper part of the pot and let the water bubble up through the tube, percolating through the coffee into the lower part, until the coffee is of the desired strength, five minutes being the usual time required. Serve at once. Coffee made in a percolator is not good if allowed to cook after the required strength is reached.

Drip Coffee
Heat the pot by rinsing in hot water, and wet the strainer. Measure carefully the coffee (finely-ground) allowing one rounded tablespoon to each cup of water. Place in the drip-medium and pour boiling water through the coffee very slowly. Cover and let stand to drip through and serve immediately. Do not allow the brew to cool. If service is delayed, place the pot in or over hot water. Never reheat by placing over the fire.

Steeped Coffee
In making steeped coffee use one rounded tablespoon of coffee to each cup of water used, with an additional spoon for the pot. Add cold water. Place over the fire and bring quickly to the boiling point. Either let it stand for a moment to settle or add a little cold water.

Remember—the best coffee will lose its flavor if allowed to stand. Coffee should always be freshly made and served piping hot, as soon as it is brewed. If necessary, to let stand, the pot should be tightly covered and the spout closed by stuffing with soft cloth or paper, so that none of the aroma and flavor may be lost.

The members of the Phi Sigma Nu sorority of State College were the guests of honor at a supper and skating party at Mission Beach when the pledges entertained for them one evening recently. The sorority colors of bronze and blue were carried out in all the appointments.

The "Don't Worry" Swimming and Rowing Club juniors receive aquatic training in the Mission Beach plunge every Tuesday and Thursday evening at 7:30.

At the annual dinner given by Southern Star Chapter, O. E. S., at the Masonic Temple last week, those in attendance from Mission Beach were Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Werre, the latter being Deputy Grand Matron, State of California, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Schulze, the latter Associate Conductress of Southern Star Chapter, and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Paynter, the former a Past Patron of Raisina Chapter, and Advisor of the Past Patrons and Past Patrons Association of San Diego.

Mrs. Kitty Wilkinson of Mission Beach was initiated into San Diego Chapter, O. E. S. last Tuesday evening.

Mrs. B. D. Schulze of Pasadena is the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Schulze of San Jose Place. Mrs. Schulze's nephew, Arthur Dunn of Los Angeles is a week-end guest.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Thede and family spent Thanksgiving and following week-end with Mrs. Thede's aunt, Mrs. J. E. Brode on her ranch at De Luz, near Fallbrook.

Mr. and Mrs. Llano Briggs have taken a furnished bungalow in Pacific Beach for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Whitaker and family of Minneapolis are winter residents of the Beach, having taken a cottage on Kennebeck Court.

A meeting of the members of the national university fraternity, Delta Sigma Delta, will be held this week at the San Diego Hotel. All Delta Sigma Delta's are requested to communicate with Eugene Paynter through the Mission Beach postoffice or phone Pacific 77.

MISSION BEACH SCHOOL NOTES

The upper grades are making a peep show of the story Ali Baba and The Forty Thieves. Most of it is made of paper almost entirely. The first scene shows the cave. The other scenes will be finished later.

The School Library sent us a doll to dress in Russian costume. We have dressed it in a green skirt and a black bodice with white puffed sleeves.

Our enrollment in the school is 76. We have only two teachers. Each teacher teaches three grades.

If they pass, four children will go to Junior high school in January.

Margaret Ward of Prescott, Arizona, entered the 4-B grade here today.

The children are bringing toys, food, and clothing for the poor children at Thanksgiving time.

TES TRAMS HOLD MEETING (AND DANCE)

The Tes Trams club of P. L. H. S. held their first meeting of the year last week. There was first a business meeting. Miss Dorothy Vaughn was chairman of the program committee.

Members of Mr. Swenson's Public Speaking Class gave speeches last week to various classes in the building. Their topic was the Community Chest.

Being near the holiday season, the time when the spirit of brotherhood and helpfulness predominate most strongly, the Point Loma High School is making preparation to do its part in helping the needy.

The faculty of the school responded one hundred per cent to the call of the Community Chest Fund, donating over two hundred dollars. A highly commendable showing for a faculty of twenty-seven teachers. The students also made plans to make some of the less fortunate happy on Thanksgiving Day. They are bringing anything that may be of service to the needy, such as food, clothing or money, and are trying to make the response 100% perfect throughout the school and district of Point Loma.
